MEMORANDUM.

At the close of August 1874 there were 226 Municipal Boroughs in England; of that number 224 furnished the Local Government Board with Abstracts of their Accounts for 1873-74; a Summary of these Abstracts has been printed at page 4, et seq. The two places omitted are the City of London, which is exempted from making a Return under the Act, and the City of Peterborough, which had not been incorporated a sufficient time to render a yearly account. The Borough of Stoke-on-Trent made no Return till 1874. In the comparative statement hereunder that Borough enters for the first time under the year 1874; consequently it counts one more Borough than 1873. Stoke-on-Trent raised a Borough Rate under 5 & 6 Will. 4, c. 66, amounting to £. 4,148; at the same time the Total Expenditure for the twelve months was £. 2,674; the Rateable Value, £. 41,509.

COPY of a LETTER addressed to the President of the Local Government Board by Mrs. Nassau Senior, lately an Inspector of the Board, being a REPLY to the OBSERVATIONS of Mr. Tufnell, also a former Inspector, upon her REPORT on PAUPER SCHOOLS.

Lavender Hill, Wandsworth-road, S.W.,
16 March 1875.

Sir,

In January 1873 I was charged by the Right Honourable James Stansfeld, then President of the Local Government Board, with the duty of reporting as to the effect on girls of the system of education at pauper schools.

I made the inquiry, and in January 1874 reported the results. I was then appointed Inspector of the Local Government Board, with full powers to "inspect workhouses, and "workhouse district or separate schools."

In November 1874 I was obliged, in consequence of failure of health, to resign my inspectorship. Up to that time, although I had heard that my Report had been the subject of observations by inspectors of the Local Government Board, I was not in possession of any of their remarks. In January 1875 you sent me Mr. Tufnell's "Observations," which I learn from your letter to me of 2nd February 1875 had been sent in to the Office in April 1874. In the course of that year Mr. Tufnell resigned his inspectorship. Had his "Observations" been communicated to me in the interval between April and November 1874 I should have been in a position to reply to them as an inspector of the Local Government Board. They were neither published nor sent to me till January 1875.

Mr. Tufnell's Observations affect not only the soundness of my conclusions, but also my trustworthiness as an inspector. Even if I have no claim on personal grounds to have equal publicity given to my reply as has been given to Mr. Tufnell's strictures, I submit that I have such claim upon public grounds. My Report points to certain conclusions as to the mode of education and training of metropolitan pauper girls, which Mr. Tufnell's "Observations" directly controvert. It is not the credit of an inspector that is at issue. The question is, whether the metropolitan pauper schools are a perfect success as regards the girls educated there, or whether that system of education is capable of improvement.

You have declined in a letter to me of the 2nd February 1875 to publish officially my rejoinder to Mr. Tufnell, on the ground that his "Observations" were made while he was still an inspector, although not published till after his resignation, while my rejoinder was not made till after I had ceased to be an inspector. This, however, was owing to the non-communication to me of Mr. Tufnell's "Observations" during the time which intervened between the receipt of his "Observations" at the office and my resignation, and not to any neglect or want of promptitude on my part.

I trust, therefore, that you will be of opinion that in some way I am entitled to have the same publicity given to my rejoinder as has been given to Mr. Tufnell's "Observations," and this on public rather than on personal grounds.

REPLY to Mr. TUFNELL'S "OBSERVATIONS" on Mrs. SENIOR'S REPORT.

PART I.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

I CANNOT deal with Mr. Tufnell's "Observations" on my Report, without first drawing attention to the spirit in which he makes them. Over and over again he accuses me of bad faith and untruthfulness. Thus, on page 4, he draws attention to a passage in my Report relating to a letter accompanying a prison return with which I had been furnished, and accuses me there of substituting one word for another in a gentleman's letter, by a trick little better than forgery. Mr. Tufnell says, "The substitution of pauper for workhouse is, I suspect, simply an attempt of Mrs. Senior to transfer the charge to the "district and separate schools, as there are no workhouse schools in London." Mr. Tufnell, when he made this charge, had ample means of knowing that it was unfair, for I had had sent him the letter which he charges me with altering, and he might have seen that the word "pauper" was the writer's own; and considering that workhouse schools have been abolished in the metropolitan district for years, I think Mr. Tufnell might have understood that by "pauper schools" I could only have meant metropolitan pauper schools. He makes a similar charge against me with respect to a return with which I was furnished from the Lock Hospital, to which the above answer equally applies.

This brings me to a second head of Mr. Tufnell's unreasonableness. He pretends to refute me by returns already existing. Now he knows that I was appointed inspector for the very purpose of investigating a whole class of matters on which no official returns existed, and on which they could not exist, as the matters had, up to that time, been beyond the range of the duties of the inspectors or any other official. I was requested to make two kinds of inquiry, both of which were supposed to belong essentially to the woman's sphere; one was to ascertain the serviceableness of the education given at the district and separate schools for forming good domestic servants. As the whole management of domestic servants belongs, among us, to women, it was supposed to be specially a woman's business to inquire into the fitness of a special class of girls for service. In this inquiry I was assisted by several helpers, and the result is given in Appendix F. The girls subjected to this inquiry were not outside the inspection and jurisdiction of the officials, but up to the time of my investigation no special inquisition was made into the particulars which engaged my attention, and, therefore, the information I gathered being altogether new, beyond and beside the existing returns, cannot be controlled by them. We might as well reject Livingstone's geographical statements as to the interior of Africa because we cannot verify them, or because they are contradicted in maps of half a century ago.

The other branch of my inquiry related both to matters and persons entirely out of the view of any officials. All official inspection of these girls ends at the age of 16 or before. My second inquiry was exclusively among girls above that age, and the matter of my inquiry was concerning the eventual success or failure of the girl in her life and conduct. There were no returns existing on this head; I was appointed for the purpose of beginning them. Therefore it is altogether beside the point to confront me with old returns which have nothing to do with the subject-matter of mine, or which, if they pretend to meddle with it, do so simply by guesswork, and without a solid foundation of systematic inquiry. If such returns could be relied on, why was I appointed to make new ones? And if I was appointed to make new ones because the old could not be relied on, is it not ridiculous to turn round upon me because my returns differ from the old ones?

Again, I was appointed to investigate the effect of the Metropolitan Pauper School Education upon the girls. It had been suspected that its results were different for the two sexes. My sole duty was to inquire into its effect upon the girls; had it been undoubtedly good for them my appointment was unnecessary; yet Mr. Tufnell (p. 6) says, "I have given the testimony of former male inmates of district schools, showing their opinion of the training they had received in them. * * * * * The treatment of boys cannot be so different from that of the girls as to make one sex hate it and the other love it. The dietary, beds, playgrounds, hours of schooling, working, recreation, are identical for both boys and girls." Even this statement is incorrect, for the girls have no swimming, nor band music, nor out-door work, nor are they sent on errands as the boys are; and it is only in a few of the schools that they are drilled.

But in order that it may be quite evident that the late President of the Local Government Board was right in not resting satisfied with the old returns, I will give one which Mr. Tufnell gravely adduces to prove how wrong mine are. In page 37 of his "Observations," he says, "In 1871, the Rev. Crowther Smith, chaplain of the South Metropolitan School, paid altogether 134 visits to girls in service" [to how many girls, and were they under the age of 16?], "and the reports which are thus classified had been inspected by Mrs. Senior." The chaplain is supposed to visit each girl in place, twice a year, for a year and-a-half, sometimes two years; if he did so, how can the 134 visits, which he says he paid in one year, represent the 134 girls whom he classifies below? The conclusions, moreover, at which he arrives from this inquiry are irrelevant to the results of the inquiry embodied in Appendix F., which refers only to girls who left school in 1871 and 1872, for this reason, that his inquiry for 1871 would relate to a few of the girls who left in 1869, to all the girls who left in 1870, and only to a few who left in 1871.

| "Class V. Gone to the Union                                                                                                    | - - - | 3     |
| "Class VI. Bad                                                                                                                 | - - - | 2     |
|                                                                                                                                |       | 134 " |

Mr. Crowther Smith then gives the following explanations:—

“ One of these two cases of bad was the case of a girl who was led astray by an aunt, who is a wicked woman, and who was watching for her for that very purpose, and for which the schools can in no way be held responsible, and the other was a case of theft.”

“ The cases under Class II. may certainly be called good, and therefore belong to Class I., and so also Class III., as nearly all of them improve in their work and suitability as servants, and are known to do well after a little time. The presumption is that Classes IV. and V. are also doing well, so that in reality the conclusion is that there are only two bad cases in the whole of the year 1871, and one of those two must be looked at with the qualification mentioned above, which exonerates the schools from any reflection of blame. Adopting the same classification, with the same explanations, which apply equally to 1872, it will be seen that there positively is not a single bad case.”

“ Results of 126 visits of 1872:

* Not 125, as is stated in Mr. Tufnell's "Observations."

[Again, does 126 refer to girls or to visits?] “ Of the six who went to the union, five were there only temporarily, and are now known to be doing well. One who was in the school for two years and nine months, was placed in a situation, which she left for the union, whence she was taken out by her mother, and returned enceinte. Thus there is only one failure among the whole number, and that can hardly be attributable to the fault of the school training. The results of 1873 are, if possible, still more satisfactory.” †

Can it be wondered at that Mr. Stansfeld felt that the Utopian assumption of Returns such as these tended only to keep the administrators in a fool's paradise, and that he appointed a new inspector for the very purpose of testing them?

Mr. Tufnell could not have made Mr. Crowther Smith's Return even prima facie applicable to my inquiries, unless he had confused my classification so as to efface all distinctions. He was in possession of some Returns respecting girls under 16 years of age. He had no Returns whatever concerning girls over that age. It was necessary, therefore, for him, if he was determined to make his Returns applicable to my results, to efface my distinction, and to make it appear that there was no difference at all either in the ages or in the circumstances of the girls to whom my inquiries were directed. Mr. Tufnell, however, has sought to supplement the lack of official Returns with non-official statements. While preparing my first Report, I visited the Rescue Society for the Reform of Fallen Women, but made no use of their Returns, because I found that they contained no information whatever as to the schools where the girls had been brought up. Mr. Tufnell also visited this Society, and he thinks that he has proved by their Returns, which are totally silent on the subject, that among the girls dealt with by the Society the proportion of those brought up in Metropolitan pauper schools is infinitesimally small. After setting out what he considers the proof, he says (p. 10), “ what will be the opinion of Mrs. Senior's fairness, when I add that I learnt on my visits to this Society that she herself had been seeking evidence from the same source, and of course could not have failed to discover the proofs furnished by its reports of the erroneousness of her conclusion respecting the London pauper girls, and yet, as in similar instances before mentioned, she has suppressed all mention of the evidence so obtained.” The proof Mr. Tufnell offers is this: A table, he says, giving the counties of 691 girls dealt with during nine months of 1872, shows that only 17 of them came from Surrey, and 10 from Middlesex; and these, he assumes, to have been all the girls who could have been brought up in Metropolitan pauper schools. He takes the names of these, sifts them, and finds that only one of them was actually so brought up. But Mr. Tufnell has excluded the 201 girls from “ London and its vicinity,” who appear in the same Table, any number of whom may have been at the Metropolitan pauper schools. Since the date of my inquiries the society has registered, as far as possible, the places of education of the girls.

† The following extract from a Report made by Mr. Tufnell in 1871 is a strange comment on Mr. Crowther Smith's classification, with explanations, and perhaps explains Mr. Tufnell's own method of classifying: “ Statistical calculations are often so confusing, owing to the numerous ways in which figures may be manipulated, and the explanations and corrections which must be applied to them in order to arrive at a true conclusion, that it is much easier, and many may think more satisfactory, to reason from the broad theoretical conditions of the question.”

girls. The number for 1874 of those from the Metropolitan pauper schools is certainly not less than 18; but the return is not yet complete. In page 10, however, of the 21st Annual Report of the Rescue Society for the year 1873, we find this statement: "This society has received under its care large numbers of girls trained in district schools, who have been found upon the streets pursuing an abandoned course."

Then Mr. Tufnell tries to raise a prejudice against my fairness, by saying that "I was the author of several sensational letters in the newspapers on the subject of pauper education, and was thus irretrievably biassed in one direction." If my letters were sensational it was only because all facts which disturb our jog-trot and humdrum acquiescence in things as they are, must be sensational. Whatever the letters are called, at any rate the facts in them seemed to the head of the Local Government Board so important, that I was ultimately appointed to make special inquiries in the lines I had indicated.

PART II.

Mrs. SENIOR'S METHOD OF INQUIRY.

Mr. TUFNELL'S criticisms on my method of inquiry are these: First. I was helped by anonymous assistants. What then; is it they or I who must be responsible for the return? But the charge is not fair. Their names were known to, and approved by my chief Mr. Stansfeld, and Mr. Tufnell met two of them (Miss Synnot, my principal worker, and Miss Thornton) at my house, in January 1874, was introduced to them by name, and discussed their work.

The inquiry (Appendix F.) was carried out principally by Miss Synnot and Miss M. B. Smedley. These ladies were chosen on account of their large experience, gained in constant work among the poor, and for their practical knowledge of all that concerns the education of the lower classes. In cases where, on account of the distance or locality, the ladies themselves could not make inquiries, agents, supplied with forms to be filled up, and who were in close communication with Miss Synnot and myself, were employed. The names of the inquirers and agents were as follows:

|                     |                  |
|---------------------|------------------|
| Miss Synnot.        | Mr. R. Pym.      |
| Miss M. B. Smedley. | Miss Preston.    |
| Mrs. Synnot.        | Miss K. Preston. |
| Miss Thornton.      | Mrs. Arnold.     |
| Mrs. Farrer.        | Miss Lloyd.      |
| Miss H. Wedgwood.   | Miss Forster.    |
| Miss Gassiot.       | Miss Wilson.     |

Five Agents:

- Mrs. Pearson (for many years matron of a certified industrial school).
- Mrs. Stone (widow of a tradesman; had practical acquaintance with "general servants," and extensive knowledge of the poor).
- Miss Stone (daughter of above).
- Mrs. Logan (for 22 years a valued upper servant, had much experience of under servants, and also of the poor).
- Miss Grounds (mistress of a certificated school in Battersea, attended by children of the middle class).

By employing this staff, I was enabled to trace out many cases which would otherwise have escaped notice, for partly owing to the inexactitude of the school books, and partly to changes of residence not known at the schools, as much as seven hours was often spent in hunting out a single case. I consider the number and variety of the inquirers a strong guarantee for the fairness of the inquiry.

Of 490 girls concerning whom information is tabulated (see Appendix F. of my Report)—

Next, Mr. Tufnell says, that the witnesses from whom I collected my evidence were "anonymous," and "of a low class;" that their evidence was "the merest tittle-tattle," and that I had "only a few months' cursory acquaintance with the district schools" (pp. 1, 3, 7). Such a charge necessitates my again stating what my inquiries were.

One branch of my inquiry, the results of which are embodied in Appendix F., had for its object to ascertain "how far all girls sent to service from all the Metropolitan pauper schools in 1871 and 1872 were reported to be well conducted and efficiently "trained." This inquiry related rather to the efficiency of the girls' training than to their moral principles. The girls were under 16, most of them in their first places, and so still under the supervision of the authorities. The inquiry was conducted for me by the above-named women on the following system: I obtained from the schools nominal returns of all the girls sent to service in 1871 and 1872, with the names and addresses of the mistresses to whom they were first sent. Next, these mistresses were requested, either personally or by letter, to furnish all available information. The information obtained orally was at once written down. The girl herself was in many cases visited. In some cases the mistresses were waited on by the agents above mentioned, who were provided with books containing the questions they were to put, with spaces marked out for the answers they received. The reports of these agents were afterwards thoroughly sifted by cross-examination. I do not know what Mr. Tufnell means by saying that these mistresses were of a low class. They were of the class which he (page 5) mentions as the habitual employers of the girls. You must take your evidence from those who employ them, not from those who do not. The scarcity of "general servants," and the large number of applications for them, always enables the school authorities to select respectable mistresses. When that is not done, it is commonly the fault of the authorities. Anyhow, these mistresses are unanimous in what they say of the girls' training, and my sifting of their statements leads me to the conclusion that what they say is correct. Surely that is proof that the training is not efficient for the purpose of making these girls such servants as the mistresses want? Mistresses often said that they took the girls, though they knew they were badly trained, because it is difficult to get a general servant, and the wages are low, and the school outfit good; and they liked having these girls, because they had no friends to visit them. Does Mr. Tufnell see his way to creating a new class of mistresses, not only to employ, but also to be contented with, the girls trained under his favourite system? Once more, the tittle-tattle to which I have listened in these cases is precisely the same as that to which every person is forced to listen, when making inquiries into the character of a proposed servant.

Finally, my acquaintance with the schools (which has nothing whatever to do with my inquiries about the girls who had left school), however cursory, was yet sufficient to be useful. Mr. Tufnell says of me (page 10), "I do not deny that her report contains many "useful suggestions for improvements in the management of these schools." But he adds, "they might have all been found in his and the chaplain's reports, and were obvious to "any intelligent observer." If these improvements are so clearly desirable as to be "obvious to any intelligent observer," is it not strange that they should not have been adopted in the management of the schools in the course of the nearly 30 years during which the system has been administered?

My other inquiry, the results of which are embodied in Appendix G., was intended to test the effect of the training and education given at the Metropolitan pauper schools, by tracing up as far as possible the career of a number of girls who had left three of the schools five years ago (in 1868), after having been not less than five years at school. It will be seen therefore that no reports of the officers of other schools than those three, or of those officers relating to girls who have left since 1868, have any connection whatever with my Report. All these inquiries I myself conducted, and my method was as follows:—

I examined at the schools the admission and discharge books, in order to ascertain when the girl entered and left the school, and whether she was an "orphan" or "not known" (i.e., deserted), or was entered under the heading "other children" (a casual). I gathered all the information I could from the officials as to the girl's health, abilities, and general character during her residence in the school. I then asked the officials what they knew of her since she had left school, and examined the chaplain's book. I took down the addresses of the girl's various mistresses, and either wrote to or called on all of them. I stated to them that I had been appointed by the Local Government Board to endeavour to ascertain whether the training of girls at the Metropolitan pauper schools was satisfactory in all ways, or whether there was room for improvement, and that in order to be able to judge I should be very grateful if the mistress would tell me frankly what she thought of A.B., whether she was strong or weak in health, her temper good or bad, whether she had any relatives, and if she had, whether they were good or bad, whether she was still in Mrs. A's service, and if not, what was last known of her? I added that whatever was told me would be in confidence, for that although I should to some extent form my conclusions from what I heard, I did not wish the mistress to be exposed to annoyance from anything she might tell me. Where I had reason to believe that the mistress was not aware of the girl's place of education, I was careful not to betray it, and modified my inquiries accordingly. Whenever it was possible I questioned the girl also. I was able to do this in the case of nine girls of the 51 classified in Appendix G. I left the Report of each girl open to the last moment, in order to record the latest intelligence that had been received at the school. For example, I was by this means enabled to add that F.G. (case 45), who had an illegitimate child in the workhouse, was now in place again and doing well. She was consequently entered as one of the 18 girls "doing well." The information thus obtained was neither superficial nor was it "tittle-tattle." It is in all respects of the same kind as the evidence which would be received by a judge for the information of the court as to a prisoner's character, in aggravation or mitigation of his sentence.

Mr. Tufnell next states that when he asked me to supply him with the names of the girls after whom I had inquired, so that the truth of the evidence about them might be tested, I positively refused all information. This statement is absolutely inaccurate, as I proved in my letter to the "Times" of the 30th January 1875. The facts are as follows:—Mr. Tufnell wrote to me, 23rd March 1874, that it was "absolutely necessary" he should have the names of the girls in order to test the accuracy of my facts. Now, first, Mr. Tufnell had no right to make such a demand; but, as I wished to convince him that I had done my work conscientiously, I asked the advice of the late President of the Local Government Board, Mr. Stansfeld, by whom I had been appointed Inspector. He suggested that I should request, in the first place, a careful examination into my books, and he promised me to try to secure that this examination, both of my books and of myself and the friends who had worked with me, should be made by some thoroughly qualified person, to be named by the President of the Local Government Board; Mr. Tufnell himself being, if he desired it, a party to the inquiry. I wrote, 26th April 1874, to tell Mr. Tufnell of Mr. Stansfeld's suggestions. He declined, saying that "no good" could accrue. I also wrote to the same effect to the Reverend Crowther Smith, Chaplain of the South Metropolitan School, and to the Reverend S. G. Poole, Chaplain of Forest Gate District School. They also declined, saying that they had no time. I then wrote to Mr. Tufnell as follows, on the 6th June 1874:—"I should like to make another proposal, and should be happy (if you will tell me the numbers and initials of the cases that you feel doubtful about) to take you to the persons from whom the information was obtained, and to ask them to repeat to you what they had previously stated." I thought that this course would not only satisfy Mr. Tufnell, but also enable me to apologise to my informants for any apparent breach of my promise to them that they should be no further troubled in the matter. This offer he also refused, saying that "no good" could come of it," and that it was "too late," and he recommended me to "ask leave to withdraw my Report." As this offer to Mr. Tufnell was made on the 6th June 1874, and my Report was not published till the August following, and as Mr. Tufnell's "Observations" were not published till January 1875, I do not understand why it was "too late." I also made the proposal to go through my books and to meet my helpers, to another Inspector of the Local Government Board; but he was unable to avail himself of my offer. Mr. Corbett, however, was so good as to go through my books, and, having questioned me and my two principal helpers, expressed himself satisfied that our work had been fairly and conscientiously done, although he suggested certain alterations and omissions in my Report, which I would willingly have adopted had I not been given to understand that if any changes were made, my Report might possibly not appear in the Annual Report of the Local Government Board for 1873-74.

Mr. Tufnell next gives what he calls "a fair sample" of the evidence on which "these poor girls have been condemned."

- "1. Mrs. D. says the accounts of B. C. were very satisfactory (case 21).
- "2. P. N. has been seen sitting on a door-step (case 23).
- "3. The mistress knew nothing for certain of C. M., but her daughter had seen her in the street with long curls down her back and not looking respectable (case 37).
- "4. Mrs. C. is under the impression that E. E. is now on the streets (case 25).
- "5. Mrs. W. had heard that W. H. was leading a disreputable life in London (case 17)."

These cases are all in Appendix G. of my Report. There exists a class of evidence called indirect and cumulative, made up of small parcels, individually of little weight, but together of irresistible force. The scraps Mr. Tufnell has quoted are portions of such wholes. He has not distinguished between the value of the part and of the whole. On turning to Appendix B. of this Paper, page 22, in which I have given the report of these cases in full, it will be seen that I could not, on the evidence I obtained, class these poor girls otherwise than "dropped out of sight, of whom the last tidings were unsatisfactory."

Mr. Tufnell finds fault with the Returns for the Free Day School. And here, as throughout his observations, he questions the good faith of the ladies who compiled them. Although this is the only case in which any Returns in my Report have been collected in an unofficial manner, I cannot allow that they are erroneous, for the managers of the school were personally acquainted with each case, and were in constant communication with the 27 girls. I have, moreover, myself thoroughly investigated the Returns compiled by the ladies, and can vouch for their correctness. As an official Return, I do not wish to press it, but as a correct Return I vouch for it.

Mr.

Mr. Tufnell thinks it a further proof of the excellence of the Metropolitan Pauper Schools, that out of the 650 cases in Appendix F. of my Report, only six are reported as having fallen. Now the inquiry, of which the results are embodied in that Appendix, did not concern the ultimate life of the girls, but the sufficiency of their education as servants. They were nearly all in their first places, and still legally under the inspection and control of the school officials. It is, therefore, a discouraging sign that so many as six girls should have gone wrong; but this has escaped Mr. Tufnell's notice.

PART III.

MR. TUFNELL'S METHOD OF INQUIRY.

IN page 31, Mr. Tufnell says, "I defy Mrs. Senior, and all her anonymous delegates, to prove, by any reliable evidence, that more than 4 per cent. of children trained in district schools ever fail when in the world to gain an honest and independent livelihood." Mr. Tufnell, by his word "children" includes, I suppose, boys as well as girls, whereas my inquiry was directed to the girls alone. Now I have shown in Appendix G. of my Report that, as to 30 per cent. of the girls into whose after life I inquired, the last tidings were unsatisfactory. Mr. Tufnell further states, that the "failure of that 4 per cent. may be proved to be owing almost entirely to the influence of relations, and is therefore hardly due to the school training." But of the 16 girls, out of 51 mentioned in Appendix G., of whom the last tidings were unsatisfactory, only six, i. e., considerably less than one-half can be said to have been ruined by their relatives. (The numbers of the cases are 1, 19, 20, 21, 25, 40.) I do not wish to generalise from the somewhat narrow basis which Appendix G. represents, but I can vouch for the correctness of the inquiry; and therefore any conclusions which may be drawn therefrom, though not universal, are not inaccurate. But the truth is that the question of the success or failure in life of girls educated at the Metropolitan Pauper Schools cannot finally be decided, until further materials for forming an accurate judgment than those at present available, are ensured for the guidance of future inquiries. One correct record at least might be ensured for the future, by adding a column to the admission and discharge books, furnished to masters of workhouses, in which might be noted the place where women entering the workhouse had been educated, and the time they had been under education.

Mr. Tufnell further remarks, that "as respects the purely orphan or deserted class, who alone receive a thorough training in the schools, not one per cent. fails." And yet of the 16 girls of whom the last tidings were unsatisfactory, four were orphans, and four were deserted, and all 16 had been at least five years in the school, and therefore had received a thorough training. It will be seen below, that three of the five fallen girls from the North Surrey district schools, whom I found in the course of nine months in the Clapham and Wandsworth Workhouse, were orphans; and had been respectively nine years, ten years, and from infancy, in the school.

Mr. Tufnell adduces in support of his opinions the accounts given by several chaplains.

Thus, at page 2, the Rev. E. Rudge, chaplain of the North Surrey District School at Penge, states in a report (dated about 20 years ago), that "260 children" [query, are boys included in the word children] "had been placed in service; that, it having been his duty to visit them, he found them generally giving satisfaction to their employers." This is so vague a statement, that it cannot be treated as evidence. Moreover, in another report, made at about the same period, Mr. Rudge states that "corporal punishment is becoming almost unknown among us," whereas caning of girls by the two school-mistresses at the North Surrey District School had increased to such an extent in 1873 that the chaplain and superintendent made it a subject of complaint to me, and the Local Government Board on my representation issued an order forbidding it. It is therefore obvious that Mr. Rudge's vague statement as to the condition of one school, more than 20 years ago, cannot be taken as evidence as to the condition of all the district and separate schools at the present time. It must be borne in mind that after a girl has attained the age of 16, it is no longer the duty of the chaplain to visit her in place, and the number of girls who fail in life after that age is of course greater than the number who fail before. Therefore such evidence of chaplains, unless it is distinctly said to refer to girls over 16, with whom however they have no official connection, is absolutely irrelevant to the question at issue. Mr. Tufnell's next authority is the Rev. Crowther Smith, chaplain of the South Metropolitan District School at Sutton. Mr. Smith says (page 7) that, "after six years' experience, he is satisfied that the girls sent to place from that school, who have fallen, do not exceed 2 per cent." This gentleman's report, although it is added to Mr. Tufnell's "Observations," and pronounced by him to be "able," is hardly conclusive, as will be seen above (pp. 3, 4) where I have quoted at length his "classification with explanations." Next we come to the testimony of Mr. Vignoles and Mr. Sikes. The former gentleman who for a considerable period was chaplain of the North Surrey District School, declares in his last report [the date is not given], that among 138 children [boys not distinguished from girls] he has found only one bad child, a boy; and "that

"that not one girl, as far as he knows or can ascertain, is leading a vicious life; and that of those who left previously [previously to what?] only one girl and one boy could be classed as bad; giving as result of the year's inquiries, three bad children (two of whom are boys), to 269 doing well or fairly." The same absence of dates may be observed in the case of Mr. Sikes, who says (page 8), that he "visited more than 100 children" [whether boys or girls is not stated], "and he cannot point to one who, strictly speaking, has turned out badly, or is leading a vicious life."

I will now show the value of this evidence. The North Surrey District School, of which Mr. Vignoles and Mr. Sikes report, receives the children from the six unions of Croydon, Lewisham, Richmond, Wandsworth and Clapham, Chelsea, and Kensington, and these six unions have each their workhouse. While visiting at the Wandsworth and Clapham Workhouse, I have found during the year 1874 the following cases of girls from the North Surrey District School. These cases came to my knowledge incidentally, while I was engaged in work which had no reference to the present inquiry.

1. V. M. A.: nine years at school: orphan; admitted, for birth of second illegitimate child, 28th May 1874.
2. H. L.: ten years at school; orphan; admitted for birth of illegitimate child, 18th March 1874.
3. A. M. L.: at school all her life; orphan; sister of above; admitted for birth of illegitimate child, 28th May 1874.
4. G. E.: eight years at school; admitted 19th August 1874; had been seduced.
5. R. A. M.: three years at school; in infirmary for illness contracted by leading an immoral life; admitted to workhouse, 3rd November 1874.

Had I not been in constant and friendly communication with midwife and matron, I should not have known the history of these five girls. No provision is made in the relieving officer's or master's books, for any entry as to place or period of education of the women or girls who enter the workhouse, and the lack of this information makes it impossible to obtain from those books proper statistics as to the number of failures from Metropolitan Pauper Schools. Mr. Vignoles and Mr. Sikes believe that less than one per cent. of the girls in this school goes wrong; whereas I know from unquestionable authority that, within nine months, in one only of the six unions whose children are educated at this school, there were five girls who had fallen, three of whom were orphans. For the whole district, if the proportion were the same throughout, this would give 30 old pupils in nine months, or 40 in the year, who so publicly went wrong that they were obliged to enter the workhouse. This estimate is of course speculative, because founded on an insufficient deduction; but it demonstrates the groundlessness of the chaplain's convictions and Mr. Tufnell's that, if the girls fall or come to grief in any way, "it is certain to be known, owing to the extensive acquaintance among those classes possessed by the chaplains, guardians, and relieving officers." We come next to the Rev. S. V. Edwards, chaplain of the Central London District School at Hanwell. He states, page 8, that of 588 girls who have gone to service from that school in 20 years "he does not know, nor has even heard of more than 12 who had fallen." Now in the first place I would remark, that if the number of girls who went to service from this school for the last 20 years, is in proportion to the returns given me for the years 1871 and 1872, the number would be about 1,000, not 588. The obvious futility of this statement is no reproach to Mr. Edwards. It is not his duty to make active inquiries about the girls above the age of 16, nor even to register the rumours which might accidentally reach him about them. If he has done so, he is to be thanked for it; but testimony of this kind can have little weight when opposed to the results obtained by an official investigation. According to Mr. Edwards' statement, I am to suppose that about 12 in 588 (probably in 1,000) of the girls educated at the Central London District Schools, go wrong. In the course of my official duties I made inquiries about 35 girls who had been educated, at least five years, in these schools, and who had gone to service in the course of the year 1868. Two of these 35 girls were known of at the school, one to have fallen and entirely disappeared, the other to have had an illegitimate child. Four others were known of at the school as doing so unsatisfactorily that serious fears were entertained that they had fallen. It is strange that Mr. Edwards should not "even have heard of" these six cases. As to seven others of the 35 girls, the accounts I received were from other sources than the school authorities, and the last tidings of these girls were so unsatisfactory as to cause the greatest uneasiness as to their ultimate success in life. Thus 13 out of 35 girls can hardly be classed otherwise than as failures.

The evidence that Mr. Tufnell brings forward from the returns of the Rescue Society has been sufficiently dealt with above (page 4).

Another head of evidence is derived from the superintendents of schools. At page 6, Mr. Tufnell makes the following quotation from a report of the superintendent of the Central London District Schools. " * * * and I can state boldly "that it is very seldom that either a boy, or a girl orphan, fail in life." I think the superintendent would hardly class the 13 girls I have just mentioned above, otherwise than as failures. And six of these (cases 17, 23, 25, 37, 48, 50, see Appendix G of my Report) were orphans or deserted. But the career of girls after they leave the school is a matter quite outside the official cognisance of the superintendent, and it is not he, but

Mr. Tufnell, who is answerable for bringing forward a mere statement to discredit the evidence which I have adduced. At page 18 of Mr. Tufnell's "Observations," the superintendent of the Shoreditch School at Brentwood says that in three years 152 children went to service, that of these 146 turned out well, and that only two girls had fallen. This statement has the appearance of a quantitative accuracy which I am not in a position to gainsay. After the due separation of boys (who in 1873 were at the rate of about five boys to four girls, see Appendix E of my Report) it results that he knows of two, out of less than 70 girls who have fallen. I wish he had given us the nature of the returns on which he founded his conclusion. At page 9 of Mr. Tufnell's "Observations," the present superintendent of the West London District School is quoted, as having carefully inquired into the cases of 135 girls whom he placed in service during the nine years he was at St. James' Westminster Separate School, and as having found that only two of the number had fallen. This is precisely one of the reports which the late President of the Local Government Board so justly suspected. The special inquiries which I made under his direction showed that of seven girls, who left this school in 1868, after not less than five years' training, one had died in consequence of leading an immoral life, and two of the others were known at the school as now upon the streets. In these cases the account given me at the school was corroborated by old pupils, and from the same sources I also heard of five other girls, who had left within a year or two of those about whom I was inquiring, and who were known to have fallen.

Mr. Tufnell's final argument in favour of the schools is (pages 28, 29) that the Lord Mayor and various Royal personages have indirectly shown their approval of institutions similar in character to district schools, that several "foreigners" (page 29) and "wealthy persons," who have been shown over these schools by Mr. Tufnell, have expressed to him their admiration of them; that the London policemen, who are exceedingly intelligent, spend a large sum annually in maintaining their orphanage; that Mr. Charles Dickens (page 5) wrote an article in "Household Words" in praise of the North Surrey District School; and that these district schools are the only schools in existence which supply a ladder with the foot in the gutter and the top in the university (page 21).

PART IV.

BOARDING OUT.

MR. TUFNELL'S remarks on boarding out are as inaccurate as the rest of his "Observations."

According to him only 13 unions have adopted the system, under the Order of November 1870, the true number is 17; among these only three London unions, the true number is four (Local Government Board Report, 1872-73). He says that Bethnal Green and Poplar have given the system up; this is totally incorrect with regard to Bethnal Green, and only partially correct with regard to Poplar, which has ceased to deal with one out of the three committees to whom it formerly entrusted children.

Mr. Tufnell states (page 20), that three boarded-out girls were taken back by the guardians of the Thame Union on account of shameful neglect by the foster-mother, and adds, "Mrs. Senior will probably say there was no ladies' committee, but there was one and one member of it, a lady, had visited these unhappy children the very same morning before the Government inspector's visit, and found every thing right and in good order." I do assert that there was no ladies' committee, and I will prove it by extracts from correspondence. I wrote as follows to the clerk of the Thame guardians:

"Sir,

"12 March 1875.

"WILL you kindly inform me whether in the years 1870 and 1871, there was a voluntary society of ladies in your union, for the purpose of supervising children boarded out from the workhouse, and whether the board of guardians had committed the care of such children to this voluntary society."

I received the following answer:

"Madam,

"13 March 1875.

"IN reply to your inquiry, I beg to inform you that there is not, and never has been, any voluntary society of ladies in this union for supervising the children boarded out.

"Yours, &c.

"William Parker

"(Clerk to the Thame Guardians)."

Again Mr. Tufnell says (page 23), "External boarding out has, according to the last report of the Local Government Board, only been carried out for 169 children out of 35,547 attending the workhouse separate and district schools; so it is clear that the guardians have very generally, and I think wisely, disapproved this method of educating pauper children." Mr. Tufnell thinks that less than half per cent. only are boarded out; this is an entire mistake. Only certain unions are enabled by the boarding-out order of November 1870, to board out, and these unions have only 12,664 children. If half of these these (6,332) are permanent, and three-sevenths of these are over the legal age for boarding out (10 years), we have left about 3,620 children to whom alone boarding out is applicable, the true percentage then is about five. Out of these 3,620 children, about 1,400 belong to provincial unions, of whom 103 were boarded out, and 2,200 to metropolitan unions, of whom 66 were boarded-out; this difference arises not only from want of confidence in the boarding-out system, but also from the necessity imposed on the metropolitan unions of contributing to the common fund for the metropolitan district schools, irrespective of the number of children they send there; so that boarding out is a double cost to them; and yet the number of children so dealt with has increased in one year from 169 to 217.

Here is another instance of Mr. Tufnell's inaccuracy in figures. He says (page 27), that "the whole number of pauper children in London, including all classes, is usually '8,000.'" The following return which I obtained from the Local Government Board, shows the number of pauper children in London to be nearly 8,000, exclusive of casuals (who are only relieved with their parents).

"Number of orphan or other children relieved without their parents in the Metropolis "on the 1st January, and 1st July, in the years 1873 and 1874:—

|                     |   |   |   |   |   |   |        |
|---------------------|---|---|---|---|---|---|--------|
| " 1873, 1st January | - | - | - | - | - | - | 7,849  |

| „ 1st July          | - | - | - | - | - | - | 7,599" |

On the same page Mr. Tufnell himself points out that the number of orphan and deserted children in Scotland is diminishing, in spite of boarding-out; for he says that the number of such children was shown by the last return to be 7,590, while two years ago it was 7,931.

Mr. Tufnell, page 27, declares that boarding out has increased pauperism in Scotland. I insert the following official return.

The registered paupers in Scotland were on—

The following extract from the 29th Annual Report (1874) of the Board of Supervision in Scotland (p. xviii), disproves Mr. Tufnell's assertion. "The gradual diminution in the number of persons receiving parochial relief, upon which we have had occasion to remark in each of our four last annual reports, still continues. The number both of registered and of casual poor in receipt of relief during the past year, is smaller than it ever has been since the Poor Law Act of 1845 came into operation, and this notwithstanding the very considerable increase to the population during the interval." Though the proportion of paupers to population has decreased, the expenditure has not diminished in the same ratio. This is owing to the great sums which have lately been spent in erecting workhouses, and also to the more efficient medical help which is now extended to paupers. The following passage is extracted from a letter from G. Greig, Esq., poor inspector for the City parish of Edinburgh, dated March 1875. "Mr. Tufnell is entirely astray with regard to pauperism in Scotland. Thirty years ago an Act was passed authorising the erection of poor houses, and giving paupers legal right to relief which they practically did not have before, and the rates consequently rose, but the number of poor has not increased. Prior to the passing of the Act, the poor received such allowances as 6 d. a week, or even less. In some country parishes, so much oatmeal in the year, or were permitted to beg; now, an old person will receive 2 s. 6 d. or 3 s. 6 d. a week."

With regard to the success of the Scottish system of boarding out, I adduce the following evidence. Mr. J. Smith, governor of the chief prison for the county and city of Edinburgh, states in a letter dated the 5th of March 1875, and sent to the "Scotsman," that in 1841, young persons who had been brought up in the children's Hospital of the City Poor House, were in their subsequent careers frequently committed to prison; that on his suggestion, an inquiry was instituted by the managers of the children's Hospital, the result of which was that that institution was closed, and the children were boarded out. Mr. Smith then says:—"The children were boarded with decent and respectable, though humble people in the country within a radius of 10 or 12 miles from Edinburgh. As they grew up they were absorbed in the rural population around them, and as I was at pains to ascertain, ceased to be committed to prison, or to fall into crime."

Mr. Greig in the letter from which I have already made a quotation says, "Mr. Tufnell confuses the old 'farming out,' 'adoption,' and Boarding out. The old farming out we know was bad. I cannot find that one per cent. of our boarded-out children has failed in making an honest livelihood after leaving us, and the cost per head is 4 s., while I understand the cost in some of the district schools is 14 s. 6 d. Neither Mr. Tufnell (page 27), nor Mr. Crowther Smith (page 36, III.), appear to know anything about our system, and yet they have the assurance to condemn a monster of their own creation, which they call the boarding-out system. We send all our boarded-out children to agricultural employment. The latter part of the answer to Query 3147, as given on 155.

"page 30 of Mr. Tufnell's 'Observations,' very much proves our case. We send our children to work at 13, without fear. Why? Because they have got for friends their foster parents, the people and children of the districts, as well as the minister and schoolmaster, who all feel an interest in the child as a child of the village."

In 1871-72, the Glasgow City parish instituted an inquiry into the success in after life of 923 boarded-out children, who had been taken off the roll (i.e. ceased to be on the rates) in the 16 years between September 1855 and September 1871. Of these children 5 per cent. had died or been lost sight of during that long period, 5 per cent. had failed, and 90 per cent. were known to be doing well, their several occupations being mentioned.

Mr. Henley, in his Report on boarding-out in Scotland, which was presented to Parliament in 1870, says, "I may add that I rarely found, as inmates of the poor-houses that I visited, any adults who had been boarded out as children; and the few that were there had usually been brought there by sickness."

We next come to Ireland.

Mr. Tufnell, page 28, condemns the English system on account of the partial failure of boarding-out as adopted by the Irish Local Government Board, and then confesses that his argument is groundless. "The practice there," he says, "bears little analogy to the plan put forth in England." The system of boarding-out adopted by the Irish Local Government Board, no doubt, is subject to numerous abuses, but it is precisely the form which English advocates of boarding-out repudiate; for there are no voluntary associations for selecting homes and supervising the children; the latter duty is sometimes performed by the Local Board of Guardians, assisted by the relieving officer, sometimes by the relieving officer alone. Thus one relieving officer, in addition to his ordinary duties, had the supervision of not less than 73 children. The neglect of some of the children boarded-out from Sligo Union was wholly owing to the selection of homes, and the supervision of the children being left entirely to the relieving officer. The mortality at Derry, to which Mr. Tufnell refers, was caused by the children being placed with a wrong class of people, those, namely, who had no other means of subsistence than charity and the child's allowance. Can it be wondered at that boarding-out, under these conditions, should not be an entire success? The extract which Mr. Tufnell quotes on page 28 is from the Report for 1873 of the Irish Local Government Board. Now, most of the inspectors (11 in number), under this Board, express approval of the system of boarding-out, in spite of the failures, which are owing merely to mal-administration, and they make valuable suggestions for improvement in its administration; and while two urge its extension (one in the strongest terms), one only of the 11 inspectors recommends its abandonment.

By the kindness of Mr. Parker, a guardian of Cork Union, and the chief promoter of boarding-out in that Union, I am enabled to add the following information:—

Out of 402 children who have been boarded-out during the last 10 years from Cork Union—

72 were adopted by their foster-parents.

86 returned to the workhouse [their legal period for boarding-out having expired.

The regulations of the Irish Local Government Board require them to be returned at 10 years old].

76 were claimed by friends.

1 was sent to Deaf and Dumb Asylum.

11 have died.

156 are still boarded out.

As to the cases which occurred at Cork and Lismore of mothers deserting their children, that they might be boarded-out with friendly parties, Mr. Parker remarks that, as regards Cork, he believes two widows attempted to desert their children with this object, but they did not succeed. He adds that both the Cork and Lismore Boards refuse out-relief to widows with children, and he thinks this fact may have caused the abuse cited by Mr. Tufnell. Mr. Parker goes on to say that the rates at Cork were much lightened when boarding-out was introduced there, owing to the withdrawal by their parents of nearly 50 children from the care of the guardians. Thus even the partial failure of boarding-out, as adopted by the Irish Local Government Board, is solely owing to the abuses and imperfections of their machinery for carrying it out.

That it can be successfully carried out in Ireland is proved by the fact that another form of boarding-out there (not mentioned by Mr. Tufnell), which bears the closest analogy to the plan put forth by the advocates of boarding-out in England, has been conducted on a large scale for 44 years by the Protestant Orphan Society, and with the greatest success. Due care is exercised in the selection of homes, and in the supervision of the children. In March 1874, 9,934 orphans had been apprenticed, or otherwise provided for, and 2,541 were then under the care of the secretary (see 45th Annual Report). Catholic Orphan Societies have lately been established, and conducted with similar care, and it is believed with equal success; but I have not access to recent statistics.

The most serious of Mr. Tufnell's objections to boarding-out is, that it violates the four rules of Poor Law administration. These rules he regards with the reverence due to a divine revelation; and he "would as soon think of proving their universal applicability as of proving that the sun shines, or bodies gravitate."

1. The first of these four rules is that pauper children should be entirely separated from the the adult paupers, and receive special treatment in separate houses. In the majority of workhouse schools in the country this axiom is directly violated; the infants, both in the nursery and infants' school, are tended by pauper nurses, and sick children mix with the adult paupers in the Infirmary. Thus children under the boarding-out system are in most cases taken away from schools where they mix with adult paupers, and are placed with families who are not in receipt of relief. Therefore boarding-out, instead of contradicting, is a means of enforcing this axiom. Mr. Tufnell, page 19, cites four instances in which children were boarded-out with paupers; he has neglected to name the Unions, but, so far as they can be identified, they are Unions which do not employ a committee. He has failed, however, to find out any other abuse in connection with these cases, and the single abuse he has discovered is not necessarily an evil; a pauper receiving relief may be, in some cases, an excellent foster-parent. One of the Local Government Board inspectors visited a girl boarded-out with a person in receipt of out-door relief in the Birmingham Union, and reported very favourably of the case, adding, in a letter to a friend, that "the foster-parent had evidently been selected by the boarding-out committee with great judgment."

2. The second of these axioms is, that pauper children should be brought up in half-time schools and be employed at least half the day in some industry.

This axiom, it seems, is not of "universal applicability," for it is not generally applied to the children in the Metropolitan Pauper Schools until they are 10 years old, and in some cases even children above that age do not receive full half-time industrial training. Admitting the axiom to be all that is excellent for boys, with whom I have nothing to do, for girls, I hold that the training of a decent home is industrial training, and the very best; so far at least as concerns fitting them for domestic service, and for their future duties as housewives and mothers. Even about boys, perhaps I may be excused for digressing into the following statement. Mr. Henley reports, that he saw four boys boarded-out from the Eton Union, who had been well trained in farming occupations, and I may ask, if boarded-out children are so lacking in industrial training, how is it, that in spite of this alleged drawback, they so readily find employment? as is asserted by three of the inspectors of the largest unions in Scotland, those namely of the City parish and Barony parish of Glasgow, and the City parish of Edinburgh, who have on an average 1,000 boarded-out children under their care. Is it not because their general intelligence has expanded under the healthy and natural conditions of their education?

3. The third axiom is, that no out-relief should be given beyond the limits of the Union, or the immediate supervision of those who pay it.

This is a rule notoriously broken every day in most Metropolitan unions which give out-door relief to non-residents, having their true settlement in the Union, sometimes through the relieving officer of the parish where they reside, sometimes through private or charitable agencies. Moreover, the children of most of the London Unions are sent to pauper schools which are beyond the limits of their Unions. No child can be boarded-out beyond the limits of its Union, unless it be placed under the charge of a voluntary committee, each member of which is certified by the Local Government Board, and has entered into an agreement with the Board of Guardians who support the child, that its welfare shall be properly cared for. The committee, besides, undertakes to visit the child once in six weeks, and to report every three months to the Board upon the health and general condition of the child, and also to forward a report from the teacher of its attendance at school. If the committee fail to send in regular reports, the Board is directed to investigate the matter, and, if necessary, to withdraw the child or children. In short, responsible and carefully selected agents of the Board pay the money transmitted to them for the children under their immediate supervision, thus carrying out the third rule quite as exactly as it is carried out in the district schools.

4. The fourth and last axiom is, that relief should never be given in aid of wages, or, which is the same thing, no person should be allowed to work independently, being supported at the same time partly out of the rates.

This rule is broken every time that a widow who is earning what she can, is allowed out-door relief. As regards boarded-out children, it has never been contemplated that their wages, when they are of an age to get employment, should be supplemented with payment out of the rates. They are to be fully supported by the rates until they reach an age when they can wholly support themselves. Mr. Tufnell (page 18), referring to the rule which is observed in the Bath Union, that after the age of 13 the boarded-out child need not attend school, but the payment to the foster-parent shall be reduced from 3s. to 2s. a week, says, "this means, that at 13 years of age, 1s. weekly is to be paid in aid of wages." Mr. Tufnell has entirely misunderstood the object of this rule, which I will explain in the words of Colonel Grant, a guardian of the Bath Union. "There is no question of wages in the case; at the age of 13, all boarded-out children are placed on the list fit as for service, and may be at any time removed from the foster-parents; but as they do not attend school, it was thought, that being all day at home, they might be of some use to the foster-parent, and therefore 1s. weekly is deducted from the allowance for their support."

I must now examine the instances which Mr. Tufnell has produced as specimens of the ill-working of the boarding-out system.

1. "In one union in Lincolnshire, a boarded-out girl was violated, and the culprit was condemned to 18 months' imprisonment."

Mr. Tufnell is inaccurate in both his assertions. The girl, H. C., nine years old, was, in 1868, boarded-out from the Caistor Union (in order to be removed from her mother, a dissolute woman) with Mrs. D., a shop-woman of known respectability, residing at Great Grimsby. In the same house was a lodger, who, while Mrs. D. was ill in bed, attempted to commit a rape on the girl; as soon as her foster-mother discovered that the attempt had been made, she went to the police; the man was sentenced to 12 months for the attempt. Owing to the death of Mrs. D., the girl was sent back to the workhouse, was removed from thence by her mother, and has not been heard of since. I insert the following extract from a letter dated the 24th February 1875, from the Rev. W. W. Cooper, a guardian of the union to which the girl belonged. "I was very much surprised to hear that the case could be supposed to afford any ground for attacking the boarding-out system. The child was exposed to no danger which is not common to every child who goes into service, and to many who remain under their parents' roof. The argument, if it were good for anything at all, would show that no young female ought ever to be out of sight of some trusty person, and would introduce the Eastern jealousy of female liberty. From my knowledge of the people in the district, I come to the following conclusions—(1.) That the girl in making the complaint showed some signs of good training. (2.) That Mrs. D. in taking up the complaint showed a due sense of the responsibility she had incurred when she took charge of the girl. (3.) That due care and good judgment in selecting her as a person to whom a young girl might be entrusted was exercised. (4.) That the case cannot be fairly urged against the boarding system by any one who knows anything of the subject, or the condition of the agricultural labouring population."

2. "In the Eton Union, the inspector found a soldier sleeping in the same room with a boarded-out girl, aged 14."

The guardians visit in this union, and there is no ladies' committee; but the inspector in his report on the 13 children boarded out at Eton, after discussing the case, still concludes, "It may be admitted that the training, both moral and physical, is successful, and that the children thus reared are likely to be absorbed into the population and not to become paupers."

3. The Exeter cases are supported by no reference; if they are true, I can only say that the boarding-out committee (if one exists), in this case must have grievously neglected its duty.

4. "In one union, no member of the committee had visited the children for six months, in another for 21 months."

Mr. Tufnell again has furnished no reference to these unions. I have shown (page 10), that only one union, Poplar, has taken action in such a matter by withdrawing children from one of its three boarding-out committees. If, therefore, Mr. Tufnell's statement be correct, there is at least one more board of guardians which is neglecting its duty in not ascertaining why its committees fail to send in their quarterly reports about the boarded-out children entrusted to their care.

5. Mr. Brown reports that "he saw a girl 12 years old, who had been in the habit of sleeping in her foster-parents' cottage, in the same room with three men."

Mr. Tufnell has again given no name, and as Mr. Brown has lately died it is impossible to verify this statement. Mr. Brown, however, was no admirer of Mr. Tufnell's great schools. If he found one instance of abuse in the boarding-out system, he, at the same time, felt the district school system to be essentially vicious for girls. He says (see his Report to the Local Government Board for 1872-73, page 107), "The chief objection to the district school, is, I think, the assembling together of large numbers of girls of the lowest class. Among so many, there must be some who know much that is evil, and those are likely to corrupt the others. It would seem also that very large schools have something unfeminine in their character, and are not suited to girls. In a day-school where the children meet only for instruction, the numbers may not be of much moment, but it is otherwise in a boarding school, where the girls are constantly together."

6. Mr. Tufnell draws particular attention to the failure of the boarding-out system at Southampton, and implies that there was a ladies' visiting committee in this union; for he says, "unless the visiting lady had come at the precise hour, how could she have discovered this abuse?" In September 1872, Miss Florence Hill wrote to the clerk of the Southampton guardians, asking how many children were boarded-out in his union. In his answer, he referred to the failure of the system there, and attributed it to the want of a voluntary supervising committee.

7. Mr. Tufnell says that in one Kentish Union, which had adopted boarding-out, six children had been returned to the workhouse after having been in place, on account of insufficient industrial training. Again Mr. Tufnell has suppressed the name of the union, which I have good reason for believing to be Dartford. Miss J. M. Hill wrote to the matron of the Dartford Workhouse for information on the subject, who answered that she did not like to give information without the sanction of the Board. Miss J. M. Hill then wrote to the clerk of the guardians, enclosing the extract from Mr. Tufnell's Observations; she has received no answer. I may therefore fairly presume that Dartford is the union meant, for otherwise the matron and clerk would have said so at once. Now we may infer that Dartford boards-out every child, casual and permanent (in 1872, 77 children were boarded-out), for the Local Government Board Report for 1873-74, instead of giving giving the number of children in the school at Dartford, speaks only of "children boarded-out." That only six out of 77 casual and permanent children should be returned to the workhouse for insufficient industrial training is not very alarming.

8. Mr. Tufnell says that "in the Colchester Union 21 children are boarded-out, four of whom returned to the workhouse."

Mr. Tufnell does not mention that one of the four children was imbecile (see Mr. Bowyer's Report to the Local Government for 1873-74). Now in this union there is no ladies' visiting committee; yet even under this disadvantage the boarding-out system compares favourably with the school system, for less than 15 per cent. of the boarded-out children returned to the workhouse, while of the permanent children who had been in the Colchester Workhouse school for several years at least, about 33 per cent. returned to the workhouse. (See Mr. Bowyer's Report for 1872-73.)

I have above (page 10), shown Mr. Tufnell's inaccuracy with regard to the children boarded-out from the Thame Union, and will merely add what a Poor Law inspector told a friend of mine about the case. The children, four in number (not three as Mr. Tufnell says), were placed by the relieving officer with an ex-workhouse schoolmistress of good character, who taught the children herself, and seldom allowed them to play out of doors lest they should spoil their clothes; thus two important principles of boarding-out were contravened, instruction other than that of the foster-parent, and a natural healthy mode of life. If there had been a ladies' visiting committee these abuses would probably not have occurred.

Mr. Tufnell (page 27) does not believe that any schools turn out better trained pupil-teachers than those reared in district and separate schools. Upon what does he found his belief? The reverse is much more likely to be true; the best trained teachers are those who have had to do with the greatest variety of children; as therefore the children in pauper schools are all of one class, and are moulded on the same last to be as like as two shoes, they do not afford good training for those who have to teach them. But probably Mr. Tufnell confuses training and learning. Now it is quite possible that girls who have little amusement apart from their studies may acquire considerable knowledge of a superficial kind, such as the height of the mountains and length of the rivers in Europe, but to acquire knowledge of this kind is not the best way of fitting themselves for teachers. Mr. Tufnell adds that a boarded-out child can never bear the expense of a pupil-teachership. Now it is a well known fact that boarded-out children being obliged to attend school regularly are better educated than their companions, and as there is a great demand for pupil-teachers in country schools, it is extremely likely that the boarding-out committee would gladly find the remaining sum necessary to support the girl for the few years which would intervene before she could entirely support herself, and thus induce the managers of the school to select the better educated boarded-out girl in preference to another less educated pupil, as has happened in Birmingham. Here are some cases in point:—James Buchanan was boarded-out from one of the Glasgow parishes, at the age of 10 years and a half. He ceased to be on the rates at the age of 13, and is described in Mr. Henley's report as a pupil-teacher who has passed the Government examination. The house governor of Falkirk Workhouse informs Mr. Henley that a boarded-out boy has been assistant inspector for two years. Louisa Mobley, who was boarded-out by the Birmingham committee in 1868, is now a pupil-teacher in Christ Church School, Birmingham. Another girl who is boarded out in the same union is intended for a pupil-teacher as soon as she is old enough.

Mr. Tufnell says (page 28) that, "defenders of boarding-out cannot deny that a boarded-out boy would be worse educated in every way than at the district schools, and therefore, although they talk of the importance of cultivating family affection, they wish to separate brothers and sisters, the girls being boarded out, while their brothers remain in the schools."

This is a fair specimen of Mr. Tufnell's misconception; I wish to make no attack whatever upon the boys' schools. But he must not assume that the advocates of boarding-out say more than that large schools are not so fatal for boys as for girls. I never met one advocate of boarding-out who did not consider the system preferable for boys as well as girls. In Scotland both sexes are boarded out equally, and it has never been maintained by any one conversant with the subject that the system there does not work well for boys. The action of the Birmingham Boarding-out Committee is a practical answer to Mr. Tufnell's objection; when possible they board out orphan boys in the same families with their sisters. There are about 17 such cases in their report.

Mr. Tufnell's "most unanswerable objection" (page 23) to the boarding-out system is, that it proposes to deal only with the orphans, thus depriving the schools of their best element; he says that the permanent children do good to the casual, and that the casual do no harm to the permanent. Can it be expected that children who are taken away by vagrant, disreputable, and drunken parents, in some cases six or seven times in the year, should return to the school as innocent as when they left, and not communicate to their companions in school the evil they have picked up outside? Owing to the impossibility of efficiently supervising such great numbers, the officials will rarely find them out in the act of imparting evil to the permanent children, but the harm, although not apparent, is not the less real. But Mr. Tufnell thinks that even if permanents are corrupted by casuals it would be shocking to withdraw them, because then the schools, with only the bad element left, would be "such hells upon earth," that no decent person would undertake their management. It certainly is rather hard on the permanents to be made the corpora vilia for the experiment of reclaiming the casuals, even if the experiment succeeds, whereas I maintain it fails. The casuals are not reclaimed and the permanents are deteriorated hugely. If the permanents were withdrawn, there would be no difficulty in managing the casuals who remained (witness the reformatories into which the same class of children is received), but then the two following conditions must be observed here also, as in the case of the reformatories.

1. The children must be dealt with in small numbers.

2. They must be under compulsion to remain; this might be managed by an extension of the Industrial Schools Act to casual pauper children (see my Report, page 335).

Mr. Tufnell's remarks on the death-rate in district schools (pages 14 and 15) are not of much value. It will not be difficult to show that small reliance can be placed on them, although he has neglected to furnish the materials for testing the accuracy of his results.

1. He says, for instance, that he inserted in his Report for 1873 a Table showing that the death-rate in the five large Metropolitan District Schools for 1872, was 6·7 per 1,000, and he then remarks, "I think it will be allowed that this low amount speaks in the "strongest terms of the excellent sanitary management of these schools, considering that "the officers have to deal with children of the lowest possible type and stamina." Without any apology, he founds this large conclusion on the figures of one year. I cannot say that there would have been a higher mortality had he taken the results of five or 10 years, but it is possible that such might have been the case, and Mr. Tufnell should have shown that he felt he was leading the public to accept a wide conclusion from a very narrow basis.

2. He then says, "The average death-rate of children in England of similar ages to "those in district schools is 14·1 per 1,000." Now, Dr. Bridges, in his report to the Local Government Board for 1873-74 (page 225) says, "if we take the population of "the whole of the metropolis at the corresponding age (from 2 to 15), we find the rate of "mortality to be 14·1 per 1,000." Does Mr. Tufnell then mean to say that the death-rate of children throughout England is not smaller than that of children in the metropolis? It is impossible to tell what death-rate in district schools would correspond to the death-rate among children of similar ages in the general community without knowing the number per 1,000 in these schools at each age, and of each sex. Even then we could not properly compare the death-rate in metropolitan pauper schools with that of all England, as Mr. Tufnell has done. The comparison should be made with the death-rate among children in London, and in making such a comparison we should have to take into our calculations the fact that the children in the metropolitan pauper schools have this advantage over London children, that they are brought up in the pure air of the country.

3. The sentence which immediately succeeds the one just quoted is as follows: "Now, "as in the schools, it (the death-rate) is only 6·7; if Mrs. Senior's plan of boarding out were "adopted there would be more than twice as many deaths among them as at present; in "other words, this lady's plan of boarding out would consign at least 30 more of these poor "children now in district schools to a premature grave." Now I ask what grounds Mr. Tufnell has for assuming that the death rate among boarded-out children would be the same as that among children of corresponding ages in the general community. Mr. Greig, Poor Inspector for the city parish of Edinburgh, informs me that the death-rate among the children boarded out from that parish has been less than 2 per 1,000 during the last 10 years.

4. Mr. Tufnell goes on to speak of the manager's report of the South Metropolitan District School, and says the number of deaths "was 10 in two years among an average number of 1,400 children ranging from 4 to 15 years of age, or 3·5 per 1,000 per annum. I submitted these numbers to an eminent actuary, asking him to calculate "what is the mortality of a population of similar ages in England; he replies that by "Dr. Farr's English life-tables the annual mortality for similar ages is 8·4 per 1,000; in "other words, the death rate in the school is considerably less than half what it would "be if they were not in the school or boarded out." The first remark I have to make on this is that no actuary from "these numbers" alone could furnish the information which was asked for. The other remark I have to offer has reference to the unfair assumption plainly implied, though obscurely expressed, in the concluding words of the quotation. Every one will see that the annual death rate of boarded-out children may be even below 3·5 per 1,000, as in the case of the children boarded out from the city parish of Edinburgh. Mr. Tufnell does not declare even if he knows anything to the contrary, and it was utterly unfair to make the assumption.

5. The last quotation suggests what follows. Unfortunately Mr. Tufnell does not tell us to what two years the report of the manager of the South Metropolitan School refers, but if it included 1872, as seems probable, it follows that in one of the five large metropolitan district schools, with an average population of 1,400, there was a death rate of 3·5 per 1,000 (taking the rate for each of the two years to have been the same); while in the other four of the five large schools, with an average population of 2,909, there was a death rate of 8·2 per 1,000. How is this difference to be accounted for? Why should so many many lives be sacrificed by sending children to schools so needlessly destructive to life as four of these five large schools appear to be? The difference between 3·5 and 8·2 (or even 6·7) is very startling, and there is reason to fear either that something is far wrong with the figures or far wrong with the schools.

6. Again, how does it happen that the "eminent actuary," as regards the children in the South Metropolitan School, found the "annual" mortality of a population of similar ages "in England" to be 8·4 per 1,000, while Mr. Tufnell finds that "the average death rate of children in England of similar ages to those in district schools, is 14·1 per 1,000?" Does the age of children in the South Metropolitan School differ so much from that in the other district schools as to make this possible?

7. These remarks are strictly confined to an examination of what Mr. Tufnell has said. They do not go beyond this, and they leave untouched the question of what information on this subject he ought to have obtained and supplied, in order to have rendered his observations satisfactory, and his conclusions trustworthy. This information should, if possible, be now obtained; and Mr. Tufnell should be answered by a statement disclosing the true death rates in district schools, and among boarded-out children. In comparing these with the death rate of children in London, it would be necessary to make a careful analysis of age and sex, and of all the circumstances which tend both in the case of pauper children in district schools, and of pauper children boarded out, to cause what is practically a selection of subjects; and of the circumstances which determine special arrangements regarding the sick or feeble, both before and after sending the children to school, or to family care. The returns required are at least as many as those I shall proceed to sketch. We want—

A. Numbers of the children resident in the five district schools mentioned by Mr. Tufnell (p. 14) on 1st January 1873, 1874, and 1875, according to age and sex,

The ages to be classed as follows:—

|            |       |         |
|------------|-------|---------|
| From birth | to    | 1 year. |
| „          | 1 to  | 5 „     |
| „          | 5 to  | 10 „    |
| „          | 10 to | 15 „    |
| „          | 15 to | 20 „    |

B. Numbers admitted to the five district schools during 1873, 1874, and 1875, according to age, sex, and channel. Under channel are the following heads:—

1. Through to workhouse.
2. Direct from their homes.
3. From prisons or reformatories.
4. From (private) charity schools.
5. From hospital.

C. Numbers discharged from the five district schools during 1873, 1874, and 1875, according to age, sex, and cause. Under cause are the following heads:—

1. By death.
2. Full time in school completed.
3. By friends.
4. To the workhouse.
5. To hospital.
6. By themselves, i.e., absconded.

D. Inquiry to be made at the workhouses supplying the five district schools.

1. As to number of children admitted during 1873, 1874, and 1875, according to age and sex.

2. As to the manner in which these were disposed of, according to age and sex.

- (a.) Sent to district schools.
- (b.) Sent to separate or charity (private) schools.
- (c.) Kept in workhouse.
- (d.) Sent to infirmary.
- (e.) Sent back to friends.

Such an inquiry would show to what extent there was a selection of cases. No child in a dying state would be sent to the schools, and probably the extremely feeble would be kept back.

E. It should be ascertained what is done when epidemics of scarlet fever, measles, small-pox, gastric fever, whooping cough, &c., occur in district schools. Are the infected removed to die elsewhere? When surgical ailments occur, are the patients treated in the schools, or are they removed to a hospital?

The same inquiry should be made as to all the metropolitan pauper schools. I asked the Local Government Board to allow my son to make these inquiries for me, being unable through illness to make them myself. I was told that the office could not authorise a private individual to visit the district schools and workhouses for the purpose of obtaining these returns.

Mr. Tufnell refuses to believe that decent cottage homes could be found in which to board out children, and asserts that people who undertake the care of boarded-out children do so for the money they may screw out of the allowance, and not from any benevolent impulse. It is simply a libel on people as honest as himself for Mr. Tufnell to say that the cottagers would take the children for the sake of receiving the pay, without any intention of discharging their duty to the children, as members of the household. As well say that Government officials take their salaries without any intention of doing anything in return. In their case does the money element lead to abuse? I know many cases where voluntary committees have been formed, and homes found for boarded-out children, and which are available at any moment. On the 2nd February 1875, I received a letter from a canon of Salisbury, offering ten most respectable homes for boarded-out children in his own parish in Wiltshire. Those who are more immediately concerned with boarding out than I am, will furnish hundreds of decent homes when applied to. In Scotland instances repeatedly occur in which the boarded-out child is adopted as a child of the family when payment ceases. In the "Irish Times," of 26th February 1875, there is a leading article from which I extract the following quotation:—"At various dates and ages 73 children were placed out at nurse by the guardians of the South Dublin Union. The 73 recently became 10 years of age (the age at which nursing out ceases), and the guardians gave directions that they should be collected and placed in the poorhouse. But every one of the 73 has been adopted and retained by its foster mother."

Mr. Tufnell says, page 21, that "the recollection of the excellent intellectual training received at district schools brings children, who have in after life gone to the bad, voluntarily to repentance." I do not myself believe in the power of intellectual training to bring anyone to repentance. But in any case prevention is better than cure, and all women will tell Mr. Tufnell that the recollection of home and friends has the strongest influence in keeping a girl from going to the bad. Even if the intellectual training of district schools be better than that which a girl living at home receives, I think this advantage more than counterbalanced by the moral training and the affection which would keep her straight under temptation.

Mr. Tufnell, page 25, will not believe me when I say that the children whom I saw boarded out in Buckinghamshire had been suffering from ophthalmia on their arrival, that the disease did not spread, and that the diseased children got quite well. This information was given to me by the vicar of the parish, who saw the children on their arrival, and has constantly visited them ever since. Mr. Henley, in his report, remarks, that "Boarded-out children were certainly free from those banes of workhouse schools, sore eyes and eruption of the skin." In page 13 Mr. Tufnell says, "Mrs. Senior declares that none of the boarded-out children whom she visited, had ophthalmia. Of what value is a lady's inspection, when even medical men are deceived?" When I visited the children boarded out in Scotland, I went with an experienced doctor, who examined the children's eyes and declared them healthy.

Mr. Tufnell, page 29, remarks, "of course if a few enthusiastic ladies and clergymen make it their business to look after a few children boarded out in a small village where every resident is well known to them, they may keep everything in good order." In these words Mr. Tufnell exactly describes boarding out as its advocates wish to see it carried out. I may add that there are not a few, but many enthusiastic ladies, who earnestly desire to look after boarded-out children. Among the manifold advantages of the system there are two in particular, to which I would draw your attention.

First. It brings together the upper and lower classes on a business footing; a poor person, who might otherwise regard a visit from a lady, however kindly disposed, as an intrusion, would not resent visits made in fulfilment of a duty previously recognised and accepted by both parties.

Secondly. The children, and especially the girls, when out in the world, feel that they have friends both in their foster parents and in the lady visitors, who take an interest in them, and to whom they may apply in any trouble. Such a feeling as this helps to keep many a girl from ruin.

Mr. Tufnell, page 29, mentions "the Waisenhaus at Berlin with its 1,000 orphans," as an instance of the success of large institutions like district schools. Professor von Holtzendorf, then of Berlin University, supplied the following information concerning the Waisenhaus in 1867. "The total number of children at this institution is 1,520, the majority of whom are boarded out. The remainder are distributed in 10 district buildings, the largest number in any one building being 50." In a letter dated the 9th February 1875, the Professor states that the same arrangements still prevail.

One gentleman at any rate, whose opinion ought to have weight with Mr. Tufnell, is strongly opposed to large schools. Mr. Andrew Doyle, Poor Law Inspector, when in May 1874 recommending the guardians of Swansea Union to provide improved accommodation for their pauper children, says, "I would venture to suggest that in your school
"the

“the number of each family ought to be very much less than at Mettray. If possible the family should be restricted to six boys and six girls; this point is strongly insisted on by Mr. George Bunsen, in describing the Raube Haus, and the arrangement is adopted in the most successful of the German and Swiss institutions.”

I cannot refrain from quoting the opinion of Lord Macaulay on this point: “I would rather hear a boy of three years old lisp all the bad words in the language than that he should have no feeling of family affection; that his character should be that which must be expected in one who has had the misfortune of having a schoolmaster instead of a mother.”

I think I cannot more effectually refute Mr. Tufnell's statements (page 26) as to the American practice with regard to pauper children, than by quoting the following extract:—“At a session of the State Charities Aid Association, held at New York on the 16th December 1874, it was unanimously resolved, that the visiting committees of the State Charities Aid Association pledge themselves to make it a distinct and definite part of their work to secure suitable homes in private families for all children of sound mind and body now in the poorhouses, almshouses, and other public institutions of the State, in their several counties, or who may hereafter come into them, homes where these children will be carefully trained and fitted to become respectable and self-supporting citizens.”

PART V.

SOME OF MR. TUFNELL'S CHARGES.

I HAVE reserved for the last part of this reply, the consideration of a few of the charges which have not found place in the preceding pages.

1. Mr. Tufnell says (page 1), “The school superintendents have, in a few instances, detected the cases alluded to” [by me in Appendix G.], “and on inquiry it turned out that in every case these poor girls had been grossly maligned.” I might reply in Mr. Tufnell's own words, “so careful has he been to baffle any attempt to test the truth of these statements,” that he does not even give the initials of the cases to which he refers. With all the evidence of his inaccuracy before me, he must excuse me if I decline to accept his assertion without more direct proof.

2. Mr. Tufnell next says (pages 3, 4) that “with characteristic bias Mrs. Senior has passed over, without comment, certain returns extremely favourable to pauper education.” These returns are Appendices B. and C. I put in these returns, because I wished to give every possible information, favourable or unfavourable, on the matter I was inquiring into. They are very insignificant items in the mass of evidence I have adduced. If it is a sin in me not to have annotated on Appendices B. and C., which Mr. Tufnell thinks favourable to his view, we must notice that he himself is silent with respect to Appendix D. Now the workhouse returns, from which Appendix D. was compiled, were pronounced by Mr. Longley to be drawn up with unusual care, and to these Mr. Purdy appended the following note:—“Comparing the results of education in the workhouse with those obtained elsewhere, the numbers above seem to show that while a long term of education tells very evidently for good on the women not educated in pauper schools, the reverse appears to be the case with those trained in workhouse schools; but the facts with regard to the workhouse recorded here, are insufficient for valid deduction of that kind.” To prevent Mr. Tufnell making a mistake similar to that which he made (page 4) as to my use of the words “pauper” or “workhouse” schools, I add that the gentleman who prepared Appendix D., lately assured me that in tabulating these workhouse returns, he referred exclusively to the metropolitan pauper schools, of which I had given him a list. I did not consider any of these returns as final, and therefore I have nowhere in my report based any conclusion upon them. But I must say here, that so far as they go, the workhouse returns cast the gravest doubts upon the success of a long period of education in the metropolitan pauper schools.

At page 12 of his “Observations,” Mr. Tufnell declares that it is “simply untrue” that the female industrial attendants are not good, and points to the Central London School; but the fact remains that at many of the other schools the servants are not good, owing to the low wages.

Mr. Tufnell, throughout his “Observations,” has found fault with various suggestions which I have made in my report for the improvement of the metropolitan pauper schools. By referring to the Reports of the Local Government Board Inspectors, for the same year, 1873-74, it will be seen that nearly all my suggestions are confirmed by those gentlemen. Thus Dr. Bridges confirms my opinion that the children should not be allowed to remain perfectly idle in the infirmaries, remarking (p. 232 of his report) that, “the education of the children while in the infirmaries is neglected, and habits of listless idleness are confirmed.” Dr. Bridges also shares my disbelief of the assertion that the children make themselves ill in order to get into the infirmary; for he says (page 213) he “has often been told that the children do so, but that he has failed to get satisfactory

"proof of it, and thinks it doubtful." I find also that my opinion as to the insufficient ventilation of the dormitories and school-rooms is shared by Dr. Bridges and Dr. Mouat. The former gentleman (pages 227 and 228) makes various useful suggestions for improving the ventilation of the bed-rooms; and Dr. Mouat (page 238) says that "in two or three of the schools the children are too closely packed in the dormitories, and that the ventilation at night is not sufficiently attended to, that the children are too crowded in the day-room, and that the assembly in the school-room of a considerable number of children for some hours in each room, even if large and airy, is not a judicious proceeding, in either its scholastic or hygienic relation." My opinion as to the excess in some cases of scholastic training, is also confirmed by Dr. Bridges, who remarks (page 229) that children between the ages of seven and 10 get from 25 to 30 hours a week schooling; this he thinks "more than is necessary for their brains, and more than is wholesome for blood and muscle." He suggests (page 230) that these younger children might be taught skilled gardening, which if well taught would train the faculties of observation better than most things learnt in school-rooms.

As to diet, Mr. Tufnell has misquoted me in declaring that I said that no change could be made in the dietary table on the recommendation of the medical officer: what I said (page 325 of my report) was, that "if it were acknowledged that the dietary tables needed revision, provision could be made, upon the recommendation of the medical officer, for dispensing power at certain seasons, when fruit and vegetables happened to be abundant." Since my report was sent in, Dr. McDonald, the medical officer of the Marylebone School, has succeeded in obtaining what he has long wished for, and fish and eggs and fruit now form a regular part of the diet. On this subject my opinion is confirmed by Dr. Mouat, who (page 238 of his report) remarks that the dietaries are generally ample in quantity and excellent in quality, but are not as varied as they might and ought to be. And again (page 243) he says, "the variety of their food, although in other respects defective in nutritious value, is one of the causes of the greater vigour and robustness of the street Arabs, who are badly clothed and lodged."

Mr. Courtenay (page 284 of his report) confirms my opinion as to the necessity of drill for the girls, and Dr. Bridges agrees with Mr. Courtenay, and so does Dr. Mouat. Dr. Mouat, like myself, thinks that the girls should be taught to swim (page 243), and Mr. Courtenay has been struck, as I was, with the want of energy displayed by the children in the play-grounds (page 285). Mr. Mozley (page 270) remarks on the indolence, vacancy, and stupidity of workhouse boys in his district, and is inclined to think that weakness of character and intellect is produced by entire confinement and seclusion from the outer world.

I will conclude with the following quotation from Dr. Bridges' report (page 225), which confirms me in my opinion that the artificial system of large district schools requires greater sanitary precautions than are needed in the case of boarded-out children. He remarks:—"Hygienic precautions, which are wholly unnecessary for children mixing in groups of three or four, with adult persons of wholly different constitutional tendency from their own, that is to say, for families as nature formed them, do become necessary when large numbers of children, all with similar constitutional liability to juvenile diseases, are brought together."

Mr. Tufnell says (page 18) that my "panacea for the evils I enumerate is boarding out."

Now, on reference to my report, it will be seen that I suggested manifold improvements in the management of the metropolitan pauper schools. In pages 318 to 320 of my report, I propose a thorough re-organisation of the schools, so that more of a family character might be introduced into the training, and with that view I suggest that some of the existing schools should be used as infant establishments, in which girls, on attaining the age of 12, should receive special training, by acting as nurses to the little ones, and by doing the entire house work without the aid of machinery; while others of the existing schools should be set apart as infirmaries, and others appropriated for casual children only, the remaining schools being used, as at present, for boys and girls. The changes I suggested might be perfectly carried out, if, instead of each school being as now, managed by its own committee, one Board were constituted to undertake the management of all the metropolitan pauper schools. These suggestions prove that boarding out is not my "panacea." On page 345 of my report, it will be seen that I propose boarding out for the orphans alone.

Mr. Tufnell complains (p. 6) of the "extreme unfairness of my mode of collecting evidence relative to the future of these girls." I think that I have satisfactorily proved (see above, pages 5 to 8) that my evidence was collected in the fairest and only possible way. Mr. Tufnell then makes the following remark, which perhaps illustrates his "mode of collecting evidence as to the future." "Mrs. Senior professes to have made inquiries through her delegates into the state of 650 girls placed out in service; but 180 of these could not be traced; and so she draws her deductions, and calculates her per-centages, excluding those 180, i. e., those who are probably the very best of the whole, and are 28 per cent. of the entire number." If Mr. Tufnell is in the habit of drawing deductions, and calculating per-centages from facts of which he knows nothing, I can well understand how little faith he has in statistics (see above, page 4), and I can also account for the difference in our conclusions.

Mr. Tufnell (p. 5) gives two reasons for the disappearance of girls. First, That they have risen in the world, and therefore wish to conceal their origin, for he says, if they come come to grief, it is certain to be known by the chaplains, guardians, and relieving officers. On the contrary, I have proved above (pages 8, 9) that the chaplains are most likely not to know when a girl comes to grief; and I will show further that girls who disappear from the knowledge of the school officials, are not always the very best of the entire number. Of the 51 girls (Appendix G, of my Report) about whom I personally inquired, 27 had been lost sight of by the school officials. With infinite trouble I succeeded in obtaining later tidings of them than had been received by the school officials; they may be classified as follows:—

8 were doing well (viz., Cases 2, 5, 6, 11, 13, 16, 36, 39).

3 were doing fairly (viz., Cases 34, 38, 42).

|                                                          | 40, 41, 44, 50.                 |

Of these 16 last mentioned, it is true that some of them are classed in the table to Appendix G as “doing well,” but their histories show that it was only by a very charitable construction of their conduct, that they could be so classed.

Second. The second reason which Mr. Tufnell gives for the disappearance of girls, is that they conceal themselves in order to avoid their bad relations. Yet out of the 16 girls just mentioned, only seven had bad relatives (Cases 1, 18, 19, 20, 21, 25, 40), and it is very doubtful whether those seven girls concealed themselves from the school officials in order that their bad relations might not be able to find them out. Therefore, as 16 girls out of the 27 (i. e. about 60 per cent.) who had disappeared from the knowledge of the school officials, were distinctly not “the very best outcome of the entire number,” but rather the reverse, I might very well have argued that 60 per cent. of the 180 girls who disappeared (see Appendix F of my Report) ought to be classed as “unsatisfactory.” I did not classify them at all, because I was absolutely without information concerning them; and for this omission Mr. Tufnell blames me. I may add that Mr. Mozley, Inspector of Pauper Schools in the northern district, bears me out in my opinion that the disappearance of a girl does not prove her rise in the world. He says (p. 270 of his report), “142 girls have been sent out from the Swinton and Crumpsall District Schools “in the last five years, 50 of these have left their situations, and their abodes and “occupations are unknown,” which Mr. Mozley thinks “is not entirely a favourable sign.”

The disappearance from the knowledge of the school officials of so large a number of girls, convinced me of the necessity of devising some means by which girls, after leaving school for service, should be more effectually supervised.

In order to the effectual supervision of girls until the age of 16, provision should be made for securing the following objects:

1. Selection of places for girls on leaving school.
2. Supervision of girls in their places.

(The law provides, though inadequately, for these two objects, by empowering the relieving officer to select places, and to visit girls in their first situations.)

3. Protection of girls on leaving first, or subsequent places, and selection of new places.
4. Supervision of girls in such subsequent places until the age of 16.

(The law does not provide at all for the two last objects, but in a few cases it is arranged that the chaplains or matrons should visit girls in place.)

To secure these objects, I proposed the following plan, which I explained fully in a paper sent in to the Local Government Board with my official resignation, in November 1874. It was at first to apply only to the West London District School. Girls sent to place from this school have no supervision but that of the relieving officer. This school educates the children of three unions, St. George's (Hanover-square), Fulham, and Paddington.

The scheme included a central committee, consisting of the female inspector in office at that time, the chaplain, and matron of the school (as ex-officio members), a certain number of guardians selected by the three unions, and several volunteer helpers. The duties of this committee comprised, among others, the four objects above mentioned, with the proviso that all that was done under these four heads should be reported to the guardians. These duties would be carried out in each union by a sub-committee of lady visitors, acting in conjunction with the relieving officers, one lady visitor to be appointed by the female inspector, and to act as secretary. The sub-committees would supervise and in various ways befriend all the girls in place until the age of 16, and report through the relieving officer to the central committee, thus neither the relieving officer nor the guardians would be superseded in any of their legal functions; for the sub-committees would be only committees of inquiry, and the central committee would be only a body for receiving and formulating the results of that inquiry, and reporting it to the guardians.

In aid of the above plan which is partly official and partly voluntary, I proposed to form a voluntary association for befriending,

1st. Pauper servant girls over 16 years of age.

2nd. All other servant girls of any age.

This voluntary association was to consist of a central committee, with local committees acting under it. The central committee of this voluntary association would consist largely of members of the official central committee, as would the local committees of the voluntary association also consist chiefly of the members of the official sub-committees. These local committees would be composed of not less than five members, with treasurer and secretary. Their duties would be a general befriending and supervising of the girls indicated above. The secretaries of the local voluntary committees would communicate with their central committee. Thus the supervision of girls would be continued by the same ladies, without a break, long after legal guardianship had ceased. I may add, that this voluntary association has been started in several parts of London, and is doing good work. The good it already does would, of course, be greatly increased if the semi-official scheme, which I have sketched out above, for the better supervision of pauper girls in place until 16 years of age, were also carried into effect.

In quitting the subject of Mr. Tufnell's "observations" on my report, I wish to say that I am conscious of no personal soreness whatever towards him. I do not for a moment doubt that he has dealt with my report, its facts, and its conclusions, as he felt it his duty to do. No one, I am certain, recognises more cordially than I do the great and good results of Mr. Tufnell's 30 years devoted work in the improvement of pauper education. But pauper education, like all other things, is progressive. It is for the head of the poor law executive, the Government, and the public, to judge between Mr. Tufnell's views and mine. None of these three judges can judge fairly, without having the whole question between Mr. Tufnell and myself fully before them, and for that purpose this rejoinder is necessary.

I have, &c.

APPENDIX (A).

SUGGESTIONS ABOVE REFERRED TO.

1. THAT a column be added in workhouse books for entering the place and period of education of the women who are admitted (p. 2).
2. That certain inquiries should be made, in order to ascertain the correct death rate at metropolitan pauper schools (p. 17).
3. That one central Board should have the management of the metropolitan pauper schools (p. 20).
4. That the scheme I propose for the better supervision of pauper girls in place should, if possible, be carried out (p. 21).

APPENDIX (B).

1. "MRS. D. says the accounts of B. C. were very unsatisfactory." [The initials of the girl should be R. D. Mr. Tufnell has made a mistake.]

(21.) R. D.—Parents in workhouse; admitted, 17th March 1859; age, 5; discharged, 2nd July 1868.

R. D. was not visited in place by the chaplain on account of a separation of unions. Her mistress, Mrs. D., a nice person, said the case was a very sad one. The girl was a good girl enough, and the mistress determined that she should not be spoiled by her bad relations, so she never would give R. D. a day out, and she did well the first year. A strong, nice looking girl, very good worker, and willing; could scrub well, and having been in the kitchen at school, could boil potatoes, and prepare vegetables. Mrs. D. taught her and watched her. The second year Mrs. D. discovered that R. D.'s relations had found her out, and when sent on errands the girl would go to see them. The mother was dead. The father, a bad man, lived in one little room with a grown-up son and a daughter; the daughter always about in the streets—a wretched-looking girl. At the end of two years R. D. wanted to better herself, she said, although Mrs. D. had raised her her wages. She had a few pounds in her pocket, and a box of excellent clothes. Mrs. D. got her a capital place with a friend of hers. R. D.'s family induced her to give them her money, and she also pawned her clothes to help them, till she was not fit to be seen. On account of her relations, the mistress gave her warning at last. She then got herself a place in the suburbs, through a registry office. The day after she got the place, she asked leave to go to a meeting at a public house in London, where she was to meet her brother. Her mistress opposed it, but gave in at last. The girl stayed out all night, but her mistress gave her another chance. A short time after the girl asked to go again, and having no good boots, wore her mistress's. After this she was found out in small pilferings, and was discharged. She went to service at a public house. When she had been there a short time, she wrote a contrite letter to Mrs. D., her first mistress, and begged to see her. Mrs. D. let her call, and talked to her. She had hardly any decent clothes, and wanted Mrs. D. to give her, or lend her, something to wear, and said her sister was going to be married. The last Mrs. D. heard was, that the two girls had been taking care of an empty house, and the accounts were very unsatisfactory of both. The father seemed to have disappeared. A servant of Mrs. D. saw R. D. in the street some time ago, but R. D. got out of her way, or did not see her. Mrs. D. feels sure the girl would have done well but for the relations.

2. "P. N. has been seen sitting on a doorstep."

(23.) P. N.—Deserted; admitted, 27th June 1861; age, 7; discharged, 21st May 1868.

The chaplain's report, after two visits, was that she was clean, could do well if she chose, was honest but bad tempered, and that her mistress was willing to try her a little longer.

Mistress told me that P. N. knew the work she had to do very fairly; her work was scrubbing and cleaning about, no cooking; the girl was very respectable in conduct. They were obliged to part with her because of her temper. She was like a wild beast when angry, and when she had one of her angry fits the daughter of the house was afraid of sleeping without locking her door. Sometimes she would have a fit of doing nothing for a whole day. Except for her temper they liked her. They have seen her once since she left. She came with a girl who was, she said, an old school companion. The girls were going to Kew for the day with a man. P. N. said he was her friend's father, but he was very well dressed, and did not look at all like a man who would have had a daughter at a pauper school. The master and mistress don't believe that he was the father of P. N.'s friend, and did not like the look of it altogether. They have not heard of her since; but she has been once to the school since then, and said she was waitress at an eating house. Other girls, who knew her in school, report that P. N. and another girl were living together, and had been seen sitting on a doorstep in the east of London. On being questioned by their old companions, they said their husbands were in Switzerland, but they wore no wedding rings, and the informants do not think they were married.

3. "The mistress knew nothing for certain of C. M., but her daughter had seen her in the streets, with long curls down her back, and not looking respectable."

(37.) C. M.—Deserted; admitted, 24th January 1861; age, 7; discharged, 9th May 1868.

Not a strong girl; was in second class. Chaplain went to visit her in her first place; the family had gone, leaving no address, and chaplain was told that the girl was in another place. I obtained the addresses of two places where she had been. At the first place, "No such people were known." At the second, the mistress of the house told me that being much in need of a servant, she took C. M. from the workhouse without a character. She kept C. M. two years, because she thought other girls might be no better, and C. M. was strong, and not bad tempered. But she was a bold girl. It was a long time before they found out that she was dishonest. She took all sorts of things, and was a confirmed pilferer, and stole most of the things from a daughter of the house, who was exceedingly kind to her. She was forgiven the first time she was found out. But she began the same thing again, and in a fit of anger cut open the head of one of the pupils with a pail; so she was sent away. C. M. said she was going to a friend who would teach her shoe-binding by machinery. She has not called at the house since she left, but has been heard of as living with a woman who had factory girls to board with her. A woman who knew C. M. told the mistress that it was a disreputable house. The mistress, however, said she knew nothing for certain, but her daughter had seen C. M. in the street with long curls down her back, and not looking respectable. I could not get the address of where the house was, and the mistress knew no more.

4. "Mrs. C. is under the impression that E. E. is now on the streets."

(25.) E. E.—Orphan; admitted, 23rd October 1862; age, 9; discharged, 2nd April 1868.

E. E. was in first class at school. The chaplain's first report of her, two months after she had been in place, was that she was slow at work, dirty, and thoughtless; not quite truthful, but honest and good tempered, with no bad relations. The mistress, Mrs. C., said E. E. was a very worthless girl; sullen, obstinate, and untruthful. Two women visited her while she was with Mrs. C. One said she was E. E.'s mother; a very low sort of person. As the girl was an orphan, this woman could not have been her mother. The other woman was a cousin, smartly dressed, and apparently not respectable. Mrs. C. said they had reason to suspect E. E.'s honesty. Some spoons disappeared in a very unaccountable manner, and the girl's manner was so unsatisfactory that they sent for a policeman, but nothing was proved. The girl, who had a mole on her forehead, bought a fortune-telling book, which predicted great things for people so marked, and the girl seemed much occupied with this subject. After a time, as nothing could be done with E. E., Mrs. C. discharged her. Mrs. C. is under the impression that E. E. is now on the streets.

5. "Mrs. W. had heard that H. W. was leading a disreputable life in London."

(17.) H. W.—Orphan. Admitted, 15th January 1863; age, 9; discharged, 22nd August 1868.

Strong in health; a bad temper. When she went to place the chaplain did not visit her. She went to a gentleman's family where his visits might have brought annoyance on the girl, as the other servants would have found out whence she came. She went as laundry maid. H. W. did very well in the laundry at first, and was a good girl to work, but after a time she became troublesome. Her mistress talked to and reasoned with her, but found it of no use, and at last H. W. "broke out," and got so forward with some of the young men, that Mrs. H. (her mistress) was forced to part with her. Mrs. H. got her another situation, but she did not remain there very long. Mrs. H. heard of her at a laundry, but does not think she stayed there long. Mrs. H. says that H. W. turned out very badly; she could not give me the address of the person to whom she went on leaving her (Mrs. H.), nor did she know where the girl now is. At the school I heard that H. W. had not been to visit there for a long time, and that she had been heard of with a "gipsy kind of woman," not at all a creditable friend, who lived in a shed, and her informant did not know how H. W. got a living; perhaps by going out to daily washing. H. W. was too fond of dress. Mrs. W., sick nurse at the workhouse, who had often taken girls to the school, remembers her well. Mrs. W. had heard that H. W. was living a disreputable life in London, and her daughter, a girl from the same school, said the same.
